

David Saxby

A speaker and trainer for over 20 years, David delivers keynotes, seminars and workshops in the areas of marketing, creativity and presentation design and delivery. David has been delivering multimedia presentations for over 14 years. His firm consults to corporate executives and professional speakers.

President of his own marketing firm, for over 30 years, David built his business from a one-man company to one of Western Canada's leading marketing communications firms. He sold that firm and established Spark Communications Inc. to focus on a career as a speaker and presentation consultant and coach to executives.

David is a founding board member and a past President of the Calgary chapter and a past National Director of CAPS (The Canadian Association of Professional Speakers).
